

The IRS has many online resources for low- and moderate-income taxpayers. Here are some of the most important ones.

Five things to remember when filing income tax returns in 2022: www.irs.gov/newsroom/top-5-things-to-remember-when-filing-income-tax-returns-in-2022

Three important tax credits. A tax credit reduces the amount of income tax you owe and can even put money in your pocket. Here are three important credits for lower-income taxpayers:

- 1 Child Tax Credit: the IRS made advance payments on the Child Tax Credit in 2021. Did you get what you are entitled to? Learn more here: www.irs.gov/credits-deductions/advance-child-tax-credit-payments-in-2021
- 2 Earned Income Credit: this helps low- and moderate-income families get a tax break. Learn more: www.irs.gov/credits-deductions/individuals/earned-income-tax-credit-eitc
- 3 The Economic Impact Payments (EIP or “Stimulus Funds”) you may have gotten in 2020 and 2021 were actually advance payments on an IRS tax credit, which is called the Recovery Rebate Credit.
